

How much do Homosexuals impacts on society

By Dr. Abdul Alim Ibrahim
Senior Consultant – Psychiatry

During the last week of past January, the prime minister of one Scandinavian country got married her "girlfriend", she had 67 years old. And during the first week of July, the Argentina Perelman declares and with majority the homosexuals right to marry and to adopt children even if 91% of Argentina population are supportive of Catholic Church.

It's known that a mayor of one from few prestigious European countries declares in public his homosexuality and now he's a candidate for the presidential election on 2012. The homosexuality or imitating other sex exists obviously in the center of some ministers, judges, constitution makers and legislators in many countries especially in Europe and Scandinavia but Italy remains an European exception until now, it is the only country which resists this phenomena and sticks to church instructions but its unknown how long it will last and these instructions will survive.

However, in Africa, there's 37 states prohibit and criminalize the homosexuality also Roret Mokaby , the president of Zimbabwe, went to far by describing the homosexuals as lowest than pigs and dogs... Through these different situations we can see how homosexuality appears superficially during the last 30 years and what homosexuals gain from rights were not based on scientific studies as it was clarified in Adina city when the last assembly of English Royal Faculty For Psychiatrics was held from 21 to 24/6/2010.

During this assembly they declared that homosexual rights was acquired because of the tension made by powerful homosexuals which affected many civil organizations, human rights organizations, decisions and law makers in different countries.

What I want to make it clear from proposing the above mentioned subject is that I don't want to criticize these groups and that's not because I agree with their behavior or ideology but to prevent their charges against me as creating hate against them because unfortunately now they can criminalize by law any one criticize or even question the rights they gained, but my objective from this subject is saying that the homosexuality existence as entity will impose on others to define themselves as heterosexuals and this distinguishing is unfair for the human sexual attitude; adding to that what will be the sexual direction for the next generation when they will have the right to choose between their sexuality tendency where inconvenient circumstances will lead them to be homosexual.

This matter is really complicated especially in Arabic and Islamic countries where we have to be aware and fully conscious about homosexual's directions, objectives and their impacts on society.